Peace Proclamation.

The 19th July saw a series of very interesting ceremonies and functions, official and non-official, which passed off without any hitch or hindrance and the most important of which was the reading to the public of the Peace Proclamation. The morning started with an act of mercy and grace shown by His Gracious Majesty our King Emperor and over a hundred of prisoners were released. Some of the prisoners who had nothing to fall back upon after their release and would have gone utterly helpless were given a few tips and those of them who had no cloth were given pieces of cloths for which act of consideration, the Superintendent of the Jail and the Jailor deserve thanks of not only the prisoners but of the public also. At 5 p. m. came the ceremony of the Peace Proclamation. At the appointed hour the District Magistrate arrived and the Police Guard presented arms. From the dais, the Magistrate read out the Proclamation in English and Rai Babadur Rajkishore Das the Dy. Magistrate senior read the Oriya translation of the same. When the Proclamation was being read, the Police guard attending fired a few volleys of guns. There was a goodly gathering of people of all shades and colours. The inclemency of the weather did not in any way mar the proceedings of the historical evening. 19th July 1919 will have a page in the History of the Great War and in the history of India and perhaps in the history of Orissa if it is ever written. All passed off well no doubt but we noticed one drawback. The Oriya translation of the Proclamation ought to have been printed and distributed broad-cast. The people have known long before that Germany has been defeated but of the Peace they have known or understood little or nothing. They ought to know what Peace means and the terms in detail in easy popular style. As read by Rajkishore Babu, the translation is not at all happy nor to be understood by the mass.

On the morning of the 20th cloth and rice were distributed to the poor and indigent.

Of the other ceremonies the laying of the foundation stone of the Utkal Salutaris Sanjay was gone through with much eclat under the Presidency of the Rajah Sahab of Aul, the chief donor. Particulars of the ceremony are given in our vernacular columns.

Krishna the Charioteer.

For some time past, we had a copy of a little book lying on our table. It was presented to us by Babu Suresh Chandra Gupta B.A. The author of the book is Babu Mohini Mohan Dhar M.A. B.L. formerly a Professor of the Ravenshaw College and latterly the Dewan of Mayurbhanj the premier Feudutary State of Orissa. He retired from service sometime ago and is now residing in England. The book is named as given on the top "Krishna the Charioteer." Mohini Babu is a great scholar of vast & varied erudition and it is borne out by the publication of this book which gives the sacred of all sacred books the "Bhagbat Gita" in a nutshell. The "Gita" is not accessible to all. Those who have an access to it, cannot easily expound it to others, because an easy grasp of the profound teachings therein revealed is not within the reach of all. Nothing short of divine inspiration would enable one to make an attempt towards interpreting and expounding the sublime truths which stand revealed in each and every verse of the "Celestial Songs".

All the scriptures and sacred writing of the worlds faith are inspired taken in their true and intrinsic lights and to our mind therefore "Krishna the Charioteer" is an inspired production. The hitherto unparalleled supreme teachings of Lord Krishna, revealed some five thousand years ago still remain unrevealed, though not to the inspired or initiated, yet to those who are deep sunk in the inevitable and impenetrable "Ajnana Timira." Whosoever tries to dispel this "Timira" or Ignorance is thrice blessed and we dare say that "Krishna the Charioteer" is a "Darpaka Darpna" or the Jaana Salaka to dispel that "Timira" to a great extent. In the little book, the whole of the 18 Chapters of the Gita marching in chronological order, chapter by chapter with verses quoted for the elucidation of the sacred words which are apposite to the "subject of discourse" with which each chapter starts have been propounded with a markedly illuminating lucidity. To one who is unacquainted with sangkrit, or with any of the current vernaculars local or provincial and thereby deprived of studying and understanding the Gita in original, Mohini Babu's book will prove a boon God send, if read with a spirit of true faith and love in the Great Lord, the supreme Being "Krishna the Charioteer."

"Krishna the Charioteer" has been published in England where, as we have said the author now resides. It has been published with a "Fore word" by the eminent clergy Mr. James Lieth Machoth Bain. It is a short para in 30 lines and in one word we say that it gives the very essence of the book, extracted with a true Christian spirit of Love. We cannot therefore resist the temptation of quoting a few lines from the measured thirty. Mr. Bain says "No greater pleasure could my brother dear in the Holy One, Mohini Mohan Dhar give me than to ask me to write a foreword to this truly vital, inspiring and a valuable contribution of his love to the literature that has given itself to the interpretation to the words of Krishna in the Bhagabat Gita. For our brother is a lover, a real, live lover through and through all his nature, yes, a lover of the Lord Krishna. For to one who sees fully and truly, it is evident that here even as in our Christian Scriptures Love or Bhakti is made the all and in all the Power of Life. It is the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the consummation of Life. For his Blessing Krishna is my Holy Christ and my Christ is his Krishna. The italics are ours. Mr. Bain is no doubt a true Christian and his words breathe the true Christian spirit. He sees Christ in Krishna and Krishna in Christ. This is Christianity which Christ preached and taught and this is Hinduism according to the teachings of the Bhagabat Gita. This requires no proof and if any is necessary at all, we refer to the hymens of Arjuna in Chap XI page 107 of the book.

The learned author thus explains the merit of his book. "This small book cannot be said to be a translation of the Gita comparatively unimportant details having been omitted and important passages having been amplified in order to make the ideas intended to be conveyed clear. It gives the substance of the Bhagabat Gita chapter by chapter." We say once more that one who has not read the Gita nor has access to it, time and occasions not being suitable to afford opportunities to see it nor having the inclination to know what it contains of, due to prejudices and prepossessions, we very confidently recommend him to procure a copy of "Krishna the Charioteer or the Teachings of Bhagavata Gita." It consists of 178 pages only and it will repay perusal if nothing else. It can be had from Babu Suresh Chandra Gupta B.A. Teacher Mission School. It is a jewel of a book, if book it could be called because it is no ordinary book and we commend it to our young graduates and under graduates specially—Read once "Krishna the Charioteer" and you will have the whole of the Gita revealed to you with all its divine grandeur and glory with which the "Celestial songs" are ever resplendent.
